

Addendum to Abstract Submission – Terms & Conditions

Due to the change of format from a physical congress to a virtual congress, the EAACI Abstract Submission – Terms & Conditions have been amended. The following paragraphs have changed from the original document: 1, 2, 8

1. By submitting this abstract, I understand that my abstract, including names, is stored electronically and may be published by the Organising Committee on the EAACI media library and the EAACI Digital Congress platform and as a dedicated supplement in the EAACI Journal Allergy (open access). Failure to upload presentation of abstract on the designated platform will result in exclusion from online publishing on the EAACI website, EAACI Media Library, EAACI Virtual Congress platform and Allergy Journal.

2. By submitting this abstract, I understand that my personal data will be stored and shared with EAACI, KIT, the EAACI Committees, and abstract reviewers involved in the abstract selection for the EAACI Digital Congress 2020. Transfer of personal data to contactors as well as EAACI related scientific organisations may occur for production, promotion and dissemination of congress content.

8. Duplication of publications

Unpublished abstracts that have been presented at a different scientific meeting within a 12 months period prior to EAACI Digital Congress 2020, provided they contain updated/additional data, can be submitted and will be considered for presentation. Abstracts submitted for publication or to a scientific meeting, but are pending acceptance, can be submitted without restrictions. However, once the abstract has been accepted by EAACI it is automatically subject to the EAACI embargo guidelines.
